THE POET LAUREATE'S TRIBUTE. Alfred Tennyson writes Mr Lowell, from Haslemore: "We learned vesterday that the President was gone. We have watched with much admiration his fortitude, and not without hope the fluctuations of his health these many days. Now, we almost seem to have lost a personal friend. He seem to have lost a personal friend. He was a good, noble man. Accept from me and my wife and family assurances of heartfelt sympathy for Mrs. Garfield, for yourself and fer your country."

The newspapers of the most opposite shades of politics print suggestions that Monday should be signalized by some sort of national mourning, and advise that the shop windows be partially closed and the people wear crepe on their arms and exhibit other tokens of mourning.
